DISTEMPER MEDICAL RELEASE

This dog has recently had distemper. At this time, they are not showing any clinical signs and are at least 30 days post diagnosis and clinical signs and is no longer contagious. In an abundance of caution, we are recommending not to take your new dog places where they may encounter unvaccinated dogs for the next 10-14 days. The pet is not currently showing any neurological signs, but some dog that have recovered from distemper may develop neurological issues later in life. All follow-up care is to be with the owner’s veterinarian and at the owner’s expense.
